PWI Leadership

PWI was founded by Valeri Bocage who lost everything she owned in Hurricane Katrina except her indomitable spirit and vision for empowering women. Valeri participated in a leadership course in 2006 where she created a project to help women fulfill and live their dreams. As people were passionately drawn to the project, PWI was born.

Valeri believes that all people have a purpose and when we fulfill on that purpose, we also fulfill on our dreams. She says, "Once people become fulfilled they become vibrant. When a person is fulfilled and vibrant, they bring positive change to their families and their communities; with that change we can change the world." Valeri lives in San Francisco, California, and has assembled a team of incredible, passionate women who have joined her in bringing her dream to reality while working on their own dreams.
